Why Study Abroad?

Participating in a York University Summer Abroad course helps to:

- Gain international experience
- Increase your inter-cultural skills, independence and ability to adapt
- Build global competence

“Greece is a country I have been fascinated with since I was a kid, and actually experiencing Greek culture and history first-hand for a month this summer was beyond words.”

- Sierra Maier-Niemi (Summer 2015)

AP/HIST 3357 6.0
Greece;
A Modern History
from 1800-Present

Course Description

Learn about major developments in European and world history by focusing on the history of Greece in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The course includes visits to historical sites, museums, research centres in Athens and two trips to Nafplio in the Peloponnese and Ermoupoli, on the island of Syros. Every topic and on-site teaching is related to major world history events; industrialization, nation-state building, WWI and WWII, urban growth, migration and refugee settlement, political change and heritage as well as the recent political and economic events in the European Union. Prepare for a special experiential education trip that students last summer called it an experience of a lifetime.

PREREQUISITES: None

While in Athens...

While in Greece students will think and learn about the changing character of cities and their culture, their economies, their societies. One of the most rewarding experiences that distinguishes the course from the 'usual' teaching on campus is the opportunity to visit museums, historical archives, public buildings in Athens and other cities, that make history much more tangible and exciting and have the directors or curators who work there talk to us about their mission. Students also have the opportunity to visit many other sites in Athens and elsewhere during their free time.

Program Fee

- $ 2,550 CAD
- Accommodations (shared apartments)
- Transportation & Entrance to all museums, archives, and historical buildings.
- A day excursion to Nafplio in the Peloponnese, and a three days/two nights excursion to Ermoupoli, on Syros island (transportation included for both excursions).

Tuition

- Tuition fee is the standard 6.0 credit fee regulated by York University.
- OSAP is available, but can only be used for tuition.

Flight, Insurance, and Visa Documentation

- Flights are directly booked and paid for by the student.
- Purchasing Health Insurance is highly recommended.
- Students are responsible for contacting the diplomatic mission of their abroad country to obtain the necessary require documents before departure (i.e. visa documentation).

Funding

- Students participating in a YorkU Summer Abroad course are eligible for the York International Mobility Award (YIMA).
- Students in the Faculty of Liberal Arts and Professional Studies are also eligible to apply for the LA&PS International Study Abroad Award.

Professor Sakis Gekas

Professor Sakis Gekas was born in Greece, studied History in Greece and England and worked in universities in the UK and Florence before moving to York University in 2009. His research focuses on the history of the Greek state, British colonialism in the Mediterranean and the Greek immigration to Canada before 1945.

Professor Gekas teaches courses on the history of Greece from 1800 to the present, the history of colonialism in the Mediterranean and the history of Greek migration and diaspora. This is the second time the course AP/HIST 3357 6.o. Greece and Athens; from 1800 to the present, will be offered.

“One of the most rewarding experiences that distinguishes the course from the ‘usual’ teaching we offer on campus is the opportunity to visit museums, historical archives, public buildings and statues that make history much more tangible and exciting.”
